1. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-3 and 11-3, drawn to a peptide derived from the amino acid sequence of human WT1 set forth in SEQ ID NO:1 and having activity as an HLA-A26-binding cancer antigen peptide, and pharmaceutical compositions comprising the same.

Group II, claim(s) 4-7, drawn to polynucleotides expressing the peptide, and expression vectors and cells comprising the same, and a method of using the same to synthesize the peptide.

Group III, claim(s) 8, drawn to an antibody which specifically binds to the peptide.

Group IV, claim(s) 9, drawn to an antigen-presenting cell comprising a complex of the peptide and HLA-A26 antigen.

Group V, claim(s) 10, drawn to a CTL which recognizes a complex between the peptide and HLA-A26 antigen.

Group VI, claim(s) 14 and 15, drawn to a complex between the peptide and HLA-A26 antigen.

Group VII, claim(s) 16-18, drawn to a pharmaceutical composition comprising a peptide of SEQ ID NO:3, or an epitope peptide comprising the peptide, or an expression vector containing a polynucleotide encoding the peptide, or a cell comprising the expression vector, or an antigen-presenting cell comprising a complex of the peptide and HLA-A*0201 antigen, or a CTL which recognizes the complex.

Group VIII, claim(s) 19 and 20, drawn to a complex of a peptide of SEQ ID NO:3 and HLA-A*0201 antigen.

The inventions listed as Groups I-VIII do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: There is no significant common structural element among the eight groups of invention, and the eight groups of invention have significantly different activities and utilities. In addition, the X and Y references cited in the International Search Report are evidence that the inventions as claimed lack the same or corresponding special technical feature and therefore lack unity of invention.

2. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

If Applicant elects the invention of Group I, the species are the amino acid sequences SEQ ID NO:2, SEQ ID NO:8, and SEQ ID NO:9 set forth in claim 2.

If Applicant elects the invention of Group II, the species are: the peptides of a) and b); the expression vector and cell of c) and d); the APC of e); and the CTL of f); set forth in claim 16.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Claims 1-3 and 11-13 of Group I are generic to the species recited above.

Claim 16-18 of Group VII are generic to the species recited above.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: There is no significant common structural element among the species of Group I, or among the species of Group VII. The species of Group VII have significantly different activities and utilities. In addition, the X and Y references cited in the International Search Report are evidence that the species lack the same or corresponding special technical feature and therefore lack unity of invention.

3. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.
